Debate Squad Is Organized; Plans
Made for Season

In a meeting held in Joslyn hall Monday, Oct. 24, a debating class was organized under the direction of Dr. Pollock, professor of English. Plans were made for the coming debate season. A member of the Nebraska Intercollegiate Forensic association, Omaha University is planning competition with other members, and will enter a team in the annual tournament of the association.

The question for the season reads, "Resolved, That the United States should agree to the cancellation of the inter-allied war debts."

Among the colleges the debaters hope to meet are members of the state association, such as Wayne, Kearney, and Cotner; Morrisville College and Drake University in Iowa; Sioux Falls College and the University of South Dakota in South Dakota, and possibly Nebraska University.

Eleven prospective debaters attended the first meeting. A regular meeting time was set for three p. m. every Monday. Preliminary work will take up the first few weeks. The debating season will not start until after the Christmas holidays. All who are interested should attend the next meeting.

Stimson Participates in Research Work

Dr. C. W. Stimson, assistant professor of History and Economics at the Municipal University of Omaha, has been invited by the American Legislative Association to participate in carrying on some research in which the association is interested at this time. Senator J. A. Rodman of Omaha is on the board of managers of this organization.

Mr. Labovitz of the University of Chicago has advised the association, according to R. L. Mott, its research consultant, that Dr. Stimson would be able to help the association "more in gathering information about exemption from taxation than anyone else in the country."

Dr. V. H. Vartanian

VARTANIAN CONDUCTS MARRIAGE STUDY;
ASSISTED BY STUDENTSHas Interviewed 230 Couples; May Take Several Years

Digging into the intimate secrets of 400 men and women's lives, by means of the questionnaires, Dr. V. H. Vartanian, assisted by 83 of his students, will soon be able to divulge valuable information, as far as successful marriages are concerned, in his book on "The Moral Reconstruction of the American Family."

The work as a whole may take several years, according to Dr. Vartanian. The first phase, concerned with "establishing the basic factors and experiences which may make permanent marriages," is nearly completed. For the past 18 months Dr. Vartanian interviewed by questionnaires 230 couples who have been married twenty years or more, in order to have his information from an experienced and competent source.

Seven Classifications

The questions asked in the interview were divided into seven classifications: outstanding factors and experiences, domestic factors, social factors, economic factors, religious and moral factors, psychological factors and personal traits as factors. Some of the questions asked were as follows:

What one thing do you consider as the most important and helpful in making your marriage permanent? Is marriage worth while, even though one is not as happy as before marriage?

What difference do you see in your love for your mate now as compared with your love when married? Would you have remained married if you ceased to love your mate? Do you believe in modern freedom of husbands and wives with others of the opposite sex?

Were there times when your expenses were more than your earnings? Did your religion raise any problem in your marriage relations? What are some of the instinctive and elemental reasons why you preferred married life and chose to stay married?

Stability in Orient

The answers to these questionnaires brought out the fact that men require other virtues than beauty in their wives, and vice versa. It also revealed that women are inclined to make up sooner than men after a quarrel, and that women look for loyalty, faithfulness and honesty in their husbands. Husbands seek loyalty, honesty and domestic efficiency in their wives.

"I intend to study home life in Japan, China, India and Persia, where there is a tendency for stability," Dr. Vartanian said. "Perhaps we may gain something from the study of other countries."

Ellenore Martineck, clerk in the bureau's office, accompanied by her sister, Pauline, attended the Nebraska-Minnesota game in Minneapolis Saturday, Oct. 17.

Standing

BENSON HIGH GRAD

Ann Thurston, sophomore, was awarded the Mary Stoddard scholarship, according to an announcement by the scholarship committee.

Miss Thurston graduated from Benson High school in 1930 and has been at the Municipal University of Omaha taking a teacher's course. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eric Thurston, 3618 North 65th Ave.

"Scholarships are awarded first, because of economic need, and, secondly, because of high scholastic standing. However, to give a student financial help he must have something worthwhile to offer to the school in order to give credit to it," stated C. W. Helmstadter, registrar and member of the scholarship committee. President W. E. Sealock is chairman of the committee and the other members are L. D. Crenshaw, bursar; Mrs. Rene H. Stevens, dean of women, and Dr. W. H. Thompson, dean of men.

There are no definite leads in the play. Verne Lynch, '36, and John Kozak, '36, have the ingenue roles, playing the parts of Sylvia Dale and Bill Gregory, respectively. Student Council
Discuss, Regulate
Student Directory

The Student Council held a meeting Monday noon in room 17 for a discussion of plans and regulations governing the publication of the student directory.

It was decided, at the request of Dr. Thompson, alumni chairman of the homecoming committee, that there would be no election of a Homecoming Queen this year, due to the fact that the alumni have made extensive plans which they believe will take care of most of the day.

It was also decided that the council will draw up an activity calendar, to determine at the first of each year the dates of the more important school activities.

Omaha Students Serious Minded
Business-Like, Declares Rhoades

Dr. Joseph H. Rhoades, head of the department of business administration, officially began his work Monday morning, Oct. 17, 1932, after being introduced to the salesmanship class by President W. E. Sealock. Dr. Rhoades is filling the vacancy left by the death of Professor A. J. Dunlap.

In an interview with Dr. Rhoades he stated that the Omaha university students seemed to be more serious-minded and business-like about their work than is the case in some colleges.

Depressions Not New
"Depression is the result of an artificial boom," Dr. Rhoades stated. "Depressions are not new to this world for even at the time of Joseph there were seven fat years and seven lean years. Depression travels in cycles. We have a minor one every seven years and a major one every 30 years."

"Furthermore," Dr. Rhoades stated, "many economists believe that the general price level will be lower for the next 15 years. This, however, doesn't mean that the depression will last that long, for although the period from 1865 to 1897 was one of slightly decreasing prices, great progress was made in American history during that time. The depression has its good points for it has tended to have a sobering effect on the people, and makes them more conservative."

"A college education is of proven value not only in enabling the average individual in earning a higher salary, but also in helping him adjust himself to his surroundings and the changing conditions. The college man makes a better citizen and is an important factor in assisting to uplift his community."

Writing Books

Dr. Rhoades is writing books on advertising, salesmanship and credit merchandising. He became acquainted with Dr. Sealock while touring the country gathering material to be used in his books. These books contain results of actual experience and data gathered in teaching classes. He is a member of the Omaha Chamber of Commerce. He takes an active part in civic affairs and has spoken on economic subjects before organizations in different parts of the country. He was accompanied here by his wife, Mrs. Mary Frank Rhoades.

At present Mr. and Mrs. Rhoades are living at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Redgwick, 1710 S. 39th St. Mr. Rhoades' father, Cliff Frank, and his brother, Scott, are planning to live in Omaha.

WELCOME, ALUMNI

Welcome Alumni! Omaha University extends to you its Homecoming greetings. Forget that you left the school, be a care-free (?) student once more. Enter the festivities with that zest of youth that you had almost forgotten that you possessed. Enter the parade with a Halloween spirit. Out-yell the students at the Big Game. Forget your identity, alumni, and we promise you the best homecoming you ever had.

The student body is anxious to meet you. We will want to picture ourselves ten or fifteen years from now. We should like to hear reminiscences of your under graduate days. We can recount some interesting experiences, too. Don't forget to meet the new instructors and renew acquaintances with the old. And take a fond look at our campus, it won't be there for many more years.

Coming from many states and many walks of life, you represent the gross results of many sacrifices, just as many of you are sacrificing for our welfare now or standing as an inspiration to us in our struggle for a successful life. We hope that you see in the growth of the university, realization of many dreams of yesterday, and that you will help us to achieve our dreams of today.

WE MUST

This slogan of the 1933 Community Chest Campaign makes a definite appeal to us who far from fearing the touch of hunger or cold this winter are privileged not only to live in comparative comfort but to attend this university.

We must recognize this privilege and do all in our power to help those less fortunate. Just as the Community Chest was organized to provide a united front against poverty and suffering, so WE MUST stand united behind the Chest to make it a success.

The campaign last year was oversubscribed by $90,000. As an emergency relief fund this money filled a desperate need. We are entering another winter with little prospects of relief from unemployment. Those of us that can MUST do our share. So when you are approached for a contribution, remember your privilege; remember your duty; then, GIVE until it hurts.

... AND FOR PRESIDENT

Because of the mode among certain college papers to give their support to their favorite candidates in the impending presidential elections, the Gateway is entering the lists to boost its choice for America's highest office.

Contrary to our friends of the "Daily Nebraskan," we do not favor Mr. Thomas. Nor will we cast our vote for Franklin D. Instead we use this opportunity to beg the many Gateway readers to lend their support to ... Oh, no! Not Herbert Hoover; the man we want is none other than our ambassador of good will, Will Rogers.

Eddie Cantor would have walked away with the election last spring, but during the summer too many tried his plan—"Now's the time to fall in love." So many more fettered souls have reduced his following to a mere handful. Andy Gump is quite popular but "Gift Bags" are too unreliable. No, the only man for the job is Will. He believes in relieving the farmer—of everything, and in selling advertising space on our tariff walls. Vote for Rogers and save the weather.

DAY DREAMING

Why is it that psychologists are down on reverie so these days? We assume that all our readers know what reverie is, but just to make sure we will explain. It is practically the same as day dreaming or building castles in Spain. When one goes out and lies down on the lawn, or leans back in his chair during class, and lets one's thoughts roam at random, making no effort whatever to hold them in leash, or discipline them in any way, one is in a reverie.

This lack of discipline is the very thing that disgusts psychologists. Psychologists are great on mental discipline. They believe in goose-stepping the thoughts, giving them plenty of close order drill, manual of arms and setting-up exercises. They would, in short, reduce the brain to the ignoble level of a mere automaton.

With such a policy we disagree. We think the mind needs relaxation once in a while. Let it flit off to the South Seas in a yacht every now and then. Let it discover oil in Siberia or gold in Brazil and retire to California to live on the proceeds. Or let it wander back to the barefoot days when you knew you were going to become great and famous. Let it carry you backward and forward and sideways and every which way. What could be more fun?

Let the psychologists frown, but there are things in day dreams that their psychology "wots not of."

The library has tacked up a sign that says "SILENCE" in letters so big and black that they practically jump right out at one he minute he enters the door. Presumably the sign is intended as a warning to students that the library is a study room and not a club house.

Surely it is not meant to be taken literally. Silence is an attribute of the tomb, not of a work room. The Omaha high school libraries are satisfied with "quiet," and college students are only high school students who have graduated.

If it seems necessary to remind students of their manners, could not "quiet" be just as effective as "silence"?

'Must Pay the Price for Coming Up Through the Crowd,'--Beck

"Unless you are willing to pay the price for coming up through the crowd, you cannot hope to win success," declared Cameron Beck, personnel director of the New York stock exchange, in an address on "Leadership" before the student body of Omaha University in John Jacob hall Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock.

Beck gave what he believed to be the four essentials of a successful life. "A plan of life, a purpose, perseverance and a passion for right living."

Remove Driftwood
"Perhaps the best thing that could happen to our colleges and schools would be a wholesale cleaning out of the driftwood that has accumulated in them," said Beck. "The idlers and wasters should be removed to make room for those who want to learn and are willing to make sacrifices in order that they may."

"Today but one thought is being asked up and down the length of the land—where are we to find leadership for the future?"

Beck said that down through the ages leadership has always cost and in these tumultuous days will cost more than ever before.

Need Leaders
"We are all troubled about leadership," he asserted. "We need only"

ORPHEUM THEATER

"Washington Merry-Go-Round," which appears at the Orpheum during this week, is a well acted picture of Washington life and politics, and the manner in which two young people combat these elements and fight for love. The able cast is headed by Leo Tracy.

On the stage another spectacular musical comedy, "Topsy," is presented in a "grand manner," with grand old songs and a chorus of twenty-four.—Adv.

look over the history of the United States and the world for the past three years to see the jam we are in.

"A young man who has prepared himself for leadership will be able to take advantage of opportunity that is sure to knock at his door some time within his span of life."

According to Beck the toughest problem that confronts the New York stock exchange is getting their employees to prepare for a better position by attending the school maintained by the stock exchange.

Grow or Go

"A person must either grow or go," he stated. "If one is not willing to apply himself and take advantage of the opportunities that are at his disposal we do not want him around."

Beck declared that he was "sick and tired" hearing about blind alley jobs. "There is no such thing as a blind alley job," he said. "The only thing that makes a blind alley job is the person holding it. Everyone that has come up through the crowd has stepped out of a so-called blind alley job."

Lowly Start

He cited as an instance George W. Goethals, builder of the Brooklyn bridge and the Panama canal, who once worked in a butcher shop for three dollars a week.

"Before I close," he continued, "I want to leave with you a challenge. I challenge you to the road of service for the benefit of humanity."

According to Beck, the New York stock exchange has 2,500 employees and each year 50,000 persons pass through his office in search of work. He was introduced by E. M. Hosman, extension director at Municipal University.

Many Omahans at Wayne Normal Game

A group of approximately 75 students of the University of Omaha attended the football game at Wayne last Saturday evening between the University of Omaha and the Wayne State Teachers' College. The group was very spirited and full of pep. Numerous informal cheers were given by the Omaha group.

At crowd estimated at 1,500 saw the boys of Wayne wage a fierce battle in defense of the championship. The Wayne team showed a good deal of power in the offense, as well as in the defense, but only once were they able to make a threat at the Omaha goal line. One of the most thrilling moments of the game was when Wayne had the ball on the Omaha ten-yard line. At this moment they tried a place kick, which would have inevitably resulted, if successful, in a 3-to-0 victory for Wayne, but unfortunately the ball did not rise high enough to clear the goal posts and the ball was given to the University of Omaha.

English Fraternity Studies Literature

Sigma Tau Delta, Omaha's English fraternity, plans to bring the best literature, in its varied forms, before the student body and the friends of the university throughout the present school year.

England is the first country to receive attention, and the writer selected is the eminent British dramatist, James M. Barrie.

conservatory Saturday evening, Nov. 5, concerns the quaint life of two sisters in the better residential district of a small city in England. The manner in which the younger sister loses and regains the heart of "the dashing Captain Browne" presents interesting complications.

This arrangement of the play by Edythe Grobmann requires about one hour for presentation, after which refreshments will be served by members of the organization.

Tickets may be purchased for twenty-five cents from Lillian Hill, Pauline Smith, Elizabeth Wendland, Virginia Clary or any other member of the society.

The proceeds from the entertainment will be used to establish a scholarship fund for students in English.

WORLD THEATER

The World theater in Omaha announces the final booking of the picture that has been demanded by thousands, the picture which had a following of millions in its recent broadcast on the air, "Chandu," starring Edmund Lowe and Bela "Dracula" Lugosi.

This picture will play the week commencing Friday, October 28, with the other feature attraction, which is "Wild Girl," starring Charles Farrell, Joan Bennett and Ralph Bellamy.

Chandu, the hero of the radio drama to which millions have listened nightly, comes to life on the screen. It is filmed in a spectacular manner, with an awe-inspiring "death ray" and its tremendous potentialities as the prime factor in the plot. With Edmund Lowe as the magician, Bela Lugosi, Irene Ware, Henry B. Walthill and other favorites in the cast, this picture is one of the most unique offerings in many months.

Thrills come thick and fast, the theme revolving about Regent, inventor of the ray, its theft and the kidnapping of Regent by Roxor, Chandu's valiant efforts to save the scientist and his family from the wily Egyptian and the final destruction of Roxor's headquarters in a huge cavern on the upper Nile. To all those seeking excitement and amazing screen entertainment, "Chandu" can be heartily recommended.

Judging from the reaction of the audience, "Wild Girl" will take its place among the really outstanding pictures of the season. Both Charles Farrell and Miss Bennett give portrayals of a brand new type. He portrays the character of a grim-faced sergeant, late from the Civil War, seeking the betrayer of his sister.

Miss Bennett abandons the society roles with which she has been identified to burst forth as a hoydenish madcap mountain girl. And both achieve new dramatic heights with their brilliant performances.

The cast includes such stellar stars as Ralph Bellamy, Irving Pichel and Eugene Pallette.—Adv.

Play DePaul In Night Homecoming

TOUGHEST CONTEST OF SEASON FACES CARDS TOMORROW

DePaul Has Record of Four Victories, One Loss in Five Tilts

EXPECT RECORD CROWD

By FRANK BUXTON

Fresh from a 19-7 victory over St. Mary, the undefeated DePaul university grid squad is in town ready to help Coach Sed Hartman's eleven taper off homecoming festivities at Municipal university with a tilt under the lights at League park tomorrow night. The opening kick-off is scheduled for 8:30 p. m.

The fray promises to be the best ever staged at Western League park and the largest crowd ever to be on hand for an Omaha football game is expected to be in the stands.

The Blue Demons are heavy favorites to defeat the Omahans, as the contest marks the first time Cardinal eleven have played a team out of the small college class. The Chicagoans have chalked up four victories and one scoreless tie in five games thus far this season. They are led by Captain Matty Steffen, a triple-threat man and the spark plug of the Blue Demons' attack.

DePaul Squad Large

There is a wealth of reserve material in the DePaul camp and it is this factor that will probably be the deciding factor in Saturday's game. In the St. Mary game Sunday the DePaul reserves were rushed into the fray at the beginning of the fourth quarter with the Blue Demons behind 6-7. They pushed two touchdowns across to decide the contest in the Blue Demons' favor, 19-7.

Last year DePaul met and defeated some of the outstanding mid-western football teams. Listed among their victims are: Detroit university, University of Louisville, Illinois Wesleyan, and South Dakota university. They traveled to the west coast and lost two tilts, to Arizona and San Francisco. Hastings college was disposed of, 3 to 0.

The Cardinal squad is in good shape for the fray. They came out of the Wildcat mix with no injuries save a few minor bruises. George Hartman aggravated an old leg injury in the Wayne contest but has recovered and will start. Any overconfidence that the Omahans might have had was taken out of them by Wayne so there should be no morrow on this score.

Opponents' Record

Whatever the result of the contest, Omaha alumni and students will see the best eleven ever turned out at Municipal university face one of the fastest football teams in mid-western football.

The DePaul record is as follows: DePaul 13, St. Viator 6. DePaul 6, Illinois Wesleyan 2. DePaul 0, Western State 0. DePaul 18, Ripon 0. DePaul 19, St. Mary 7.

The Blue Demons have scored 56 points to their opponents' 15.

HASTINGS BEATS COTNER

A fourth quarter rally won for Hastings, 19 to 6, over Cotner college Friday night, Oct. 14. The score was 6 to 6 at the end of the third quarter.

HARTMAN AFTER NO. 29

Last year Mentor Codric Hartman's athletes turned in a record of victories—except for one defeat from the hands of Kearney and one tied contest with Wayne. The Cardinals have already turned tables on Kearney this season and repeated last year's performance with Wayne, but whether they will make it 29 for Hartman tonight against DePaul—well, you tell us.

COACH IN SECOND YEAR WITH CARDS

Record of 28 Victories, One Tie, Single Defeat from Last Year

Sed Hartman is beginning his second year as coach of Municipal university athletic teams.

His record contains 31 major sports contests. Omaha aggregations under his direction have been victorious in 28 of these, tied two, and lost one. The only team to defeat the Cardinals was Kearney's 1931 gridiron outfit, and that loss has already been avenged this year.

With a past record that knew nothing but defeat, University of Omaha under his coaching has made athletic history in the middle west. Last year's basketball quintet won 20 consecutive contests and acknowledged no defeat.

In track he developed George Hartman, a more youthful member of the family, into a versatile field star. Last spring Dave Lewis became the N. I. A. A. pole vault champion and set a new record in that event.

Tonight against Wayne, Sed will be after his 29th major contest victory.

PHEASANT HUNTERS GO BOOM DESPITE DAMP ATMOSPHERE

SEASON ENDS MONDAY

The call of the wild carried many University of Omaha students far outstate last Saturday and Sunday, and many pheasants took to the underbrush amid the boom of Cardinal guns.

Officially the pheasant season started Saturday, Oct. 22, and will end Monday, Oct. 31. The bag limits are the same as last year—five a day and five in possession, including not more than one hen. Several counties, including Douglas, are not open.

Those who went out Saturday staggered home with a greater collection of mud than pheasants. Rain fell steadily from 7 a. m. until late in the afternoon, and even those who were not out in the actual rainfall waded through fields ankle-deep in mud and water.

Shoot Forty

Dick Madison, one of the Omaha collegiates who challenged the wily fowls, reported hunting best in weed patches and along creek banks rather than in corn fields. He went out Saturday in the rain to bag a few, but Sunday his party of ten had better luck, shooting down 40 pheasants in Colfax county near Schuyler.

Leon and Lowell Fouts came home with seven Saturday after a day spent in the vicinity of Bloomfield, Neb. A single pheasant fell from the attempts of Kenneth Boulden Saturday, but he claims one bird tastes just as good as five.

John Double got the limit Sunday in the same hills. Bob Hoover and Art Swoboda were just under the limit Saturday and Sunday, attending the game Friday night and staying outstate over the week-end for pheasant hunting.

Dresser Gets Four

Fifty miles east of Ord, Neb., John Dresser bagged four pheasants Sunday. Jimmy Gregory was two miles north of Blair Saturday, and Leslie McClelland was trying his luck the same day around Fulerton, Neb.

Cliff Anderson and two others got 11 and two more got away. Raymond Larson was pursuing the popular birds near Grand Island, while Bob Hegarty was shooting down three somewhere in the Nebraska wilds. Marlin Wilkinson prefers duck meat, he revealed Saturday, when he trekked back to the old home town, Henderson, Ia., to hunt mallards.

Tomorrow and Sunday find more Municipal university students on the trail of the pheasant, rainstorms, snowstorms and blizzards notwithstanding.

WIN WITHOUT GIBB

Despite the fact that Bob Gibb, stellar back in the Nebraska Wesleyan lineup, was out of the game for three quarters because of injuries, the Methodists downed Doane, 14 to 6, in a night clash at Lincoln, Friday, Oct. 21. All three touchdowns were from long runs.

Sideslants on Sports

One of the interested spectators at the game last Saturday was Coach Glen Gilkeson of Peru Normal. Mr. Gilkeson undoubtedly wants to get a view of the Omaha team just in case his Peru Bobcats meet the Cardinals in a post-season game.

Virgil Sharpe and Vera Serpan drove to Wayne to witness the game. Incidentally, we asked Virg what he thought of the place-kick made by Wayne, and for some reason or other he didn't seem to know they even tried a place-kick. Figure that one out.

Troy Woerner, M. K. Woerner, Paul Fay and Billy Keenan drove to Wayne to see the game. Woerner, Fay and Keenan are former students of the University of Omaha.

DOLLAR APIECE FOR BEST YELLS

Dr. Whistler Offers Cash Prizes for Yell Writers; Five Boys, One Girl Try Out for Cheer Leader Places

Cash prizes await the writers of the best yells for University of Omaha.

At cheer leader tryouts Friday, Oct. 21, Dr. Whistler, psychology instructor, offered awards of one dollar for each of the five best yells submitted by students. Five boys and one girl gave demonstrations of their cheer leading ability, but final judging was postponed until today when a pep meeting is planned.

Yells to be entered in the contest are to be placed in envelopes, the students' names included on separate slips of paper, and given to either Dr. James, Dr. Whistler, or Mr. Hammer, or put into their boxes. The deadline for yells in this competition is noon Tuesday.

Any student may enter as many yells as he likes and is eligible to receive the maximum number of prizes.

Three who tried out for cheer leading positions Friday are experienced. They are Benny Johnson, former North High rooster, Dick Schaffer, Tech High cheerer, and George Irwin, recently from the University of Minnesota cheering aggregation.

Others who tried out were Julian McPherson, Dean Phillips and Minette Myers, the only girl at present.

PERU GAINS LEAD IN N. I. A. A. VICTORY

Cards in Second Place Following Tie Game; Peru vs. Wayne Tomorrow Night

Peru College, in defense of the N. I. A. A. conference leadership, which it gained Saturday, Oct. 22, in a 13-to-0 win over Chadron, will clash with Wayne tomorrow evening. Omaha dropped a notch below the leaders when held to a scoreless tie by Wayne Friday.

The Peru-Wayne combat will be the only Nebraska intercollegiate conference game. Kearney goes into action against Colorado Mines tonight, Omaha challenges DePaul tomorrow evening, and Chadron has an open date.

SCORELESS DRAW HARD ON OMAHA'S TITLE ASPIRATIONS

Repeat Last Year's Performance; Wayne Threatens in Last Quarter

Omaha, 0; Wayne, 0.

A modern Rip Van Winkle might have read that line after a year's sleep and never have known he had been napping. This year's conflict resembled last year's exactly in score, closely in statistics, and lamentably in effect. It might mean the loss of the N. I. A. A. title for Omaha, which is just what the 1931 scoreless tie meant.

Favored to win by two or three touchdowns, the Cardinals found themselves unable to cross the Wayne chalk line after sixty minutes of maneuvering last Friday night at Wayne and went to the showers with the score 0 to 0.

Outplay Wayne The Omahans led slightly in every recorded department of the game, but the real scoring scare came in the last few minutes of play, when Wayne advanced to the 5-yard stripe. Omaha threatened in the first part of the second half, losing the ball on the 15-yard line on two different occasions.

The first half turned into a punting duel, with Wayne getting the greater distance most of the time. The Cards, however, took their locker-room lecture to heart in the second half, clearing the path for Hoover's 30-yard run to Wayne's 15-yard line. Leon Fouts' pass was then intercepted. Later in the third period they marched down again by alternative types of scrimmage play, losing the oval on downs on the 15-yard line.

Recovered Fumble

In the fourth quarter, Thomas fumbled on the Cardinals' 30-yard line. Wayne recovered and, on the next play completed a pass to the 8-yard line. Hockett of Wayne hit the line three times without success, the Cards holding his third attempt on the 5-yard line. Hockett's try for field goal was blocked, rolled over the goal line, and Omaha again had the ball safely in its possession. The game ended shortly thereafter.
